"Bebe"

On that Sunday in December do you remember sitting peacefully at your radio listening to "Chicago Roundtable" or, more likely, Duke Ellington on "Cotton Top" when the program was interrupted by the special news bulletin that the Japanese had attacked Pearl Harbor... the look in your Dad's and Mother's eyes... the grim set of your brother's shoulders... the bewilderment you felt?

The next day at school the solemn assembly, in which we heard the President's speech, impressed everyone. The students were unusually quiet and attentive.

The way the commission took the whole affair in their stride and led the student body in the right attitude toward the war was typical of high school students all over the United States and proved that teen-age kids had sense and seriousness when a situation called for it.

Those who didn't seem to realize the seriousness of it all soon began to feel different when their fun was curtailed... no mid-winter prom or fashion show because we were at war... all night club meetings and games cancelled and all large gatherings of people prohibited. The Story Book Parade, a yearly tradition—practically unbreakable, was called off.

Remember the excitement of the first black out and the next day the convenient excuse that you couldn't do homework in the dark... your Dad rushing out as an air raid warden... your Mother in Red Cross "learning how to change a tire"... you, yourself, struggling with bandages and splints.

Then we became more adjusted and made the best of hard work and inconvenience... people laughed at shortages... formed knitting clubs... rolled bandages for the Red Cross.

Remember the excitement when Spike Jones was coming to our own El Moro Ballroom... war stamp corsages and a wonderful dance... our own students in well-known magazines with articles praising our spirit in buying stamps.

The contest in English classes helped sales along... Competition was as strong as ever between the service clubs... each trying to do the most for our country, but all willing to unite in a common cause.

There were tears in the eyes of sisters and girl friends of those serving and of those represented by gold stars at the bottom of the service flag the day it was presented in a never-to-be-forgotten assembly.

Then came rationing... teachers worn out from working on ration boards... your mother always getting confused... always ending up without any meat for a week because she bought a beautiful roast last week.

Everyone was doubly busy with all sorts of war work... from knitting sweaters to writing letters to fellows away from home.

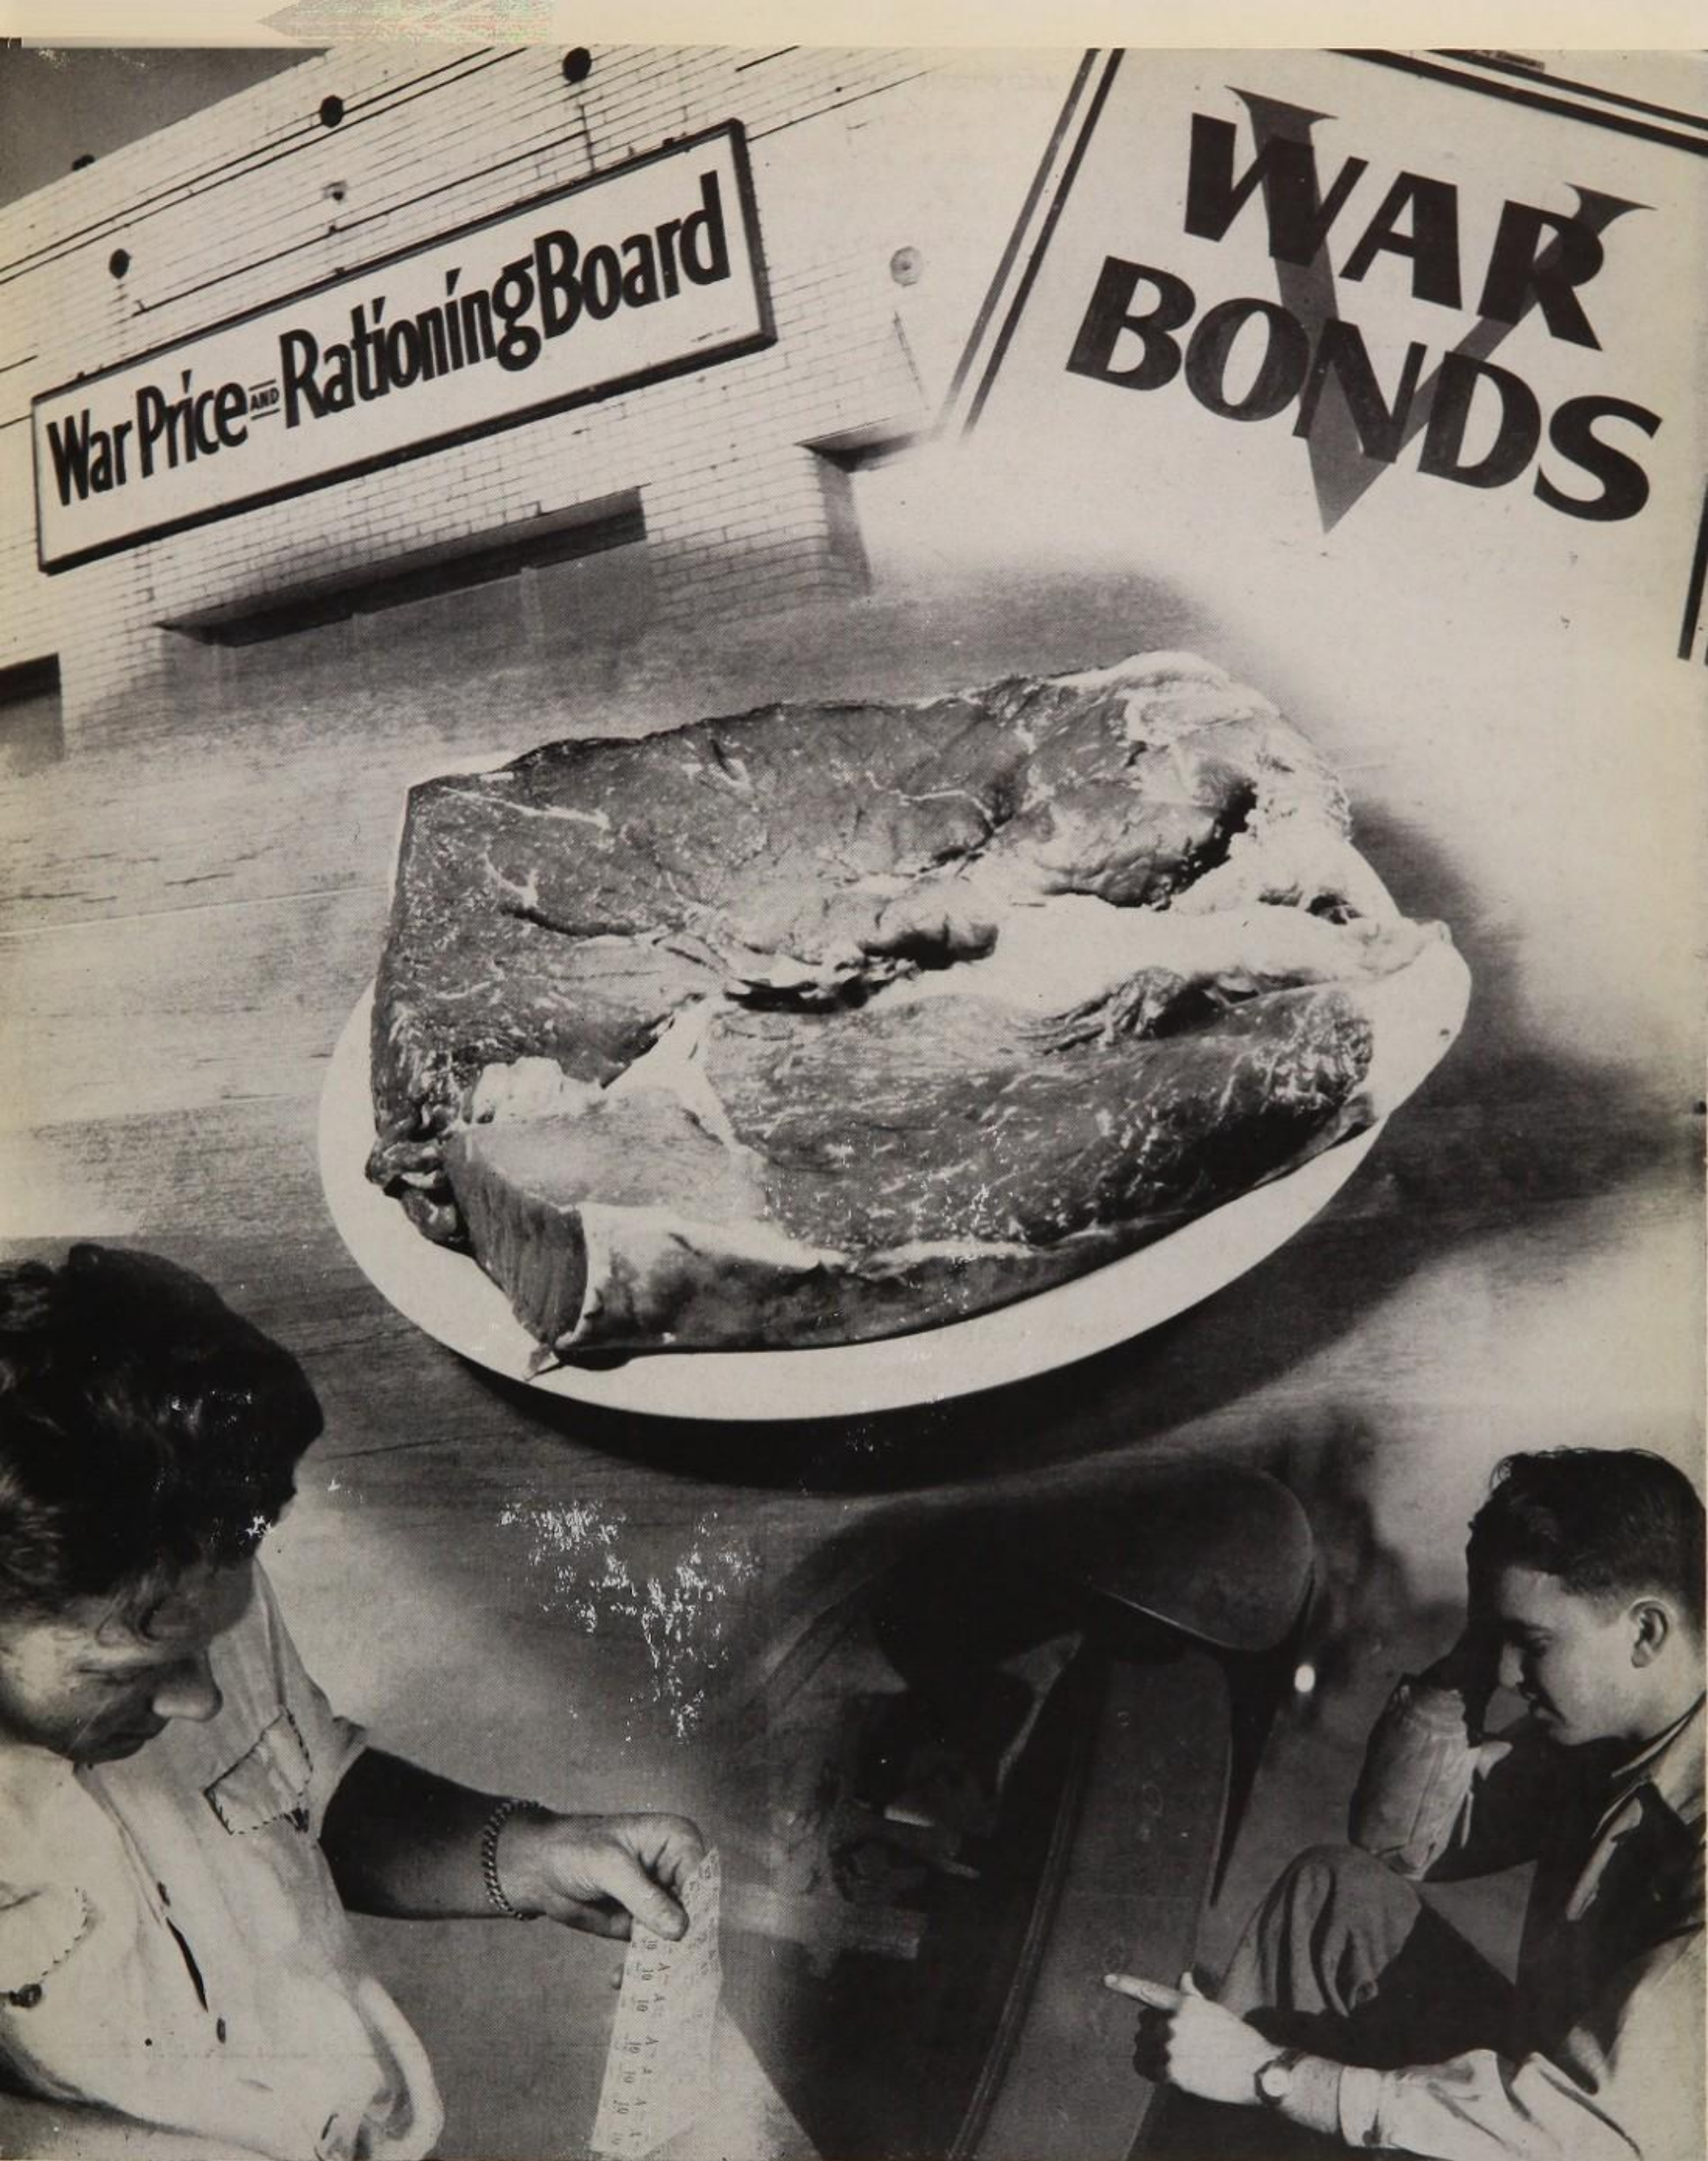

Each semester since December 1941, the students at Alhambra have accepted cheerfully the conditions brought about by the war and have been thinking up, and carrying out, ingenious ideas to help in the war effort.

Every year many have been certain that with all the shortages there would not be another Annual, but despite everything here is another one—"the best ever!"*

We, the staff of THE 1944 ALHAMBRA, with all due respect to those in the armed forces, dedicate this annual to those "long-suffering" civilians... the mothers, fathers, sisters, aunts, uncles, and grandparents whose courage, spirit, and loyalty on the home front have kept those on the battle front flying, fighting, and winning.

After war became a fact, our school life underwent changes, but as few as possible—the Board of Education saw to that. They wanted school to go on as it had before. However, every one remembers the first time we had air raid drills which the Board had announced as necessary . . . how the Board members considered and approved new courses for boys entering the service . . . how boys were able to leave school early because of their military diplomas . . . and their talking about the part of the service they had entered... the plan of having the boys work four hours and go to school four hours which didn't go into effect because of the confusion it would cause. ... Things changed a lot for our very busy superintendent, George E. Bettinger. He remembers the times when he could spend an evening of relaxation, but he can no longer do that because of his extra war time activities. He was made chief training officer of the Civilian Defense, and you recall the work he has done on the ration board. Most of all, there was that worry and anxiety until it was reported that his son was no longer missing, but a prisoner of war in Germany and being well taken care of.

Mr. Stokesbary collected gray hairs after the long hours of work he spent organizing the war bond sales in Alhambra, particularly in connection with the schools.

After the grueling hours spent with Ration Book Number One, Mr. Stokesbary will never feel the same about sugar again.

You must have realized how that one day in December, 1941, changed the lives of 132,000,000 Americans. At school the tempo quickened, and a heavier load was added to the burden already on the shoulders of our administrators.

There was that time when you asked Mr. Scharer for that extra gas at the ration board . . . you saw him coming out of the defense plant where he worked part time last summer . . . when he assumed the vice-chairmanship of the Alhambra Boy Scout Council . . . when he very heartily approved the pre-induction and aeronautics courses.

The girls particularly know of Miss Blount's contributions to the war effort through the Girl's League . . . helping them to arrange for gifts to hospitals and the U.S.O. . . . supervising their Red Cross work . . . her many letters to men and women in the services.

There was Mr. Konold . . . as the first chairman of the Alhambra Salvage Committee . . . his membership on the permanent War Bond Committee . . . as a member of the Board of Directors of the Alhambra U.S.O. . . . through the commission, his promotion of an extensive club program . . . his writing of letters to our men and women in the service and his file of their replies . . . the log for all service visitors . . . his enlistment in the U.S. Coast Guard Reserve (Temporary) and his donation of twenty-four hours every two weeks to this job.

All these activities, you will recollect, were undertaken as additions to their regular duties.

That day changed many a duty as well as a life, and you know how strange it seemed to have all that talk of wartime diplomas. That was Mr. Stoddard's job, and he did it very well. You recall those courses which required considerable rearrangement in program schedules.

You recall too, the continued helpful counseling of Mrs. Hood, who always goes to the grammar schools to help in enrollment. And when summer came she offered her services to the Los Angeles Playground Department which was in need of summer help.

Then when Mr. Casey left—you remember he left to take a position as captain in the government rehabilitation department—Miss Leonard took over his job. You may recall your soldier neighbor's saying he had met her at the local U.S.O., where she worked one night a week.

Then, too, there was the time—you don't like to admit it, but the fact remains—that you played hookey, and Mr. Lester seemed to know more about it the next day when you came back than you did.

COMMISSIONS

The commission has always had a big job, but when the war came remember how its members took on extra war work besides their regular duties . . . the way they made a special point of keeping in touch with former students now in the service . . . those book drives, the paper drives, and those huge bond drives . . .

Remember how A.H.S. challenged Woodrow Wilson Long Beach to a bond-selling contest and beat them with a total of $20,600 in six days . . . and the even bigger campaign against the grammar schools (the time we bit off more than we could chew) and the contest for queen of the "Victory Salute" . . .

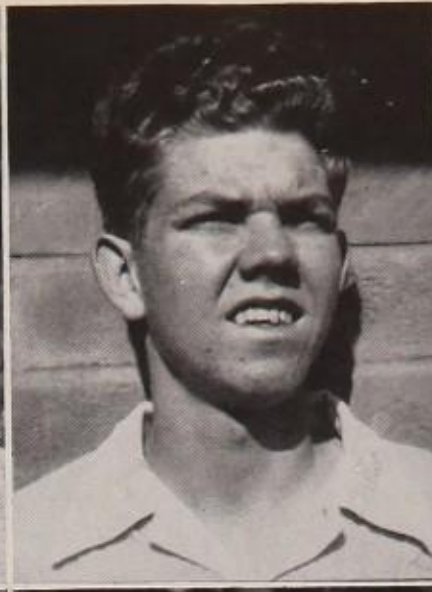

Remember that day last May when there were so many strangers wandering around the campus? That was the time the San Gabriel Valley Student Conference was held at A.H.S. to discuss the wartime problems confronting the student governments . . .

And did you see that "swell crockery"—the luncheon service—the commission bought for the use of the clubs and the faculty?

The headaches brought on by the shortages of crepe paper, pins, staples, and other decoration materials were added to the commissioners' woes. Even these didn't halt those great dances. Remember the "Scrimmage Scramble," the "Turkey Trot," the "Snow Ball," and the "Cotton and Cords Carnival." Will you ever forget them?

Dear Nancy,

 a big girl. I hope you have lots of fun this summer and also that I see you. I want you in drama and art to be together. Hope you are in some of my classes next year.

LEAGUE

Do you remember those two big barrels placed in the east and west wings a few months ago? . . . when you looked inside you saw big piles of rubber . . . This rubber drive was one of the war services of the Girls' League and the Boys' Federation . . . They were "collecting" the rubber so that more tires could be made in order to make it possible for you to drive your cars . . . Shifting from one barrel to another was only a little friendly competition.

The girls will remember the paper-covered boxes in Miss Blount's office . . . the signs, "Put your needles here" . . . the display of cotton bedspreads . . . the house-to-house campaign for keys.

"Pride of the Yankees," you recall, was one of the many good movies brought to Alhambra—thanks to the League and Federation. They buried the hatchet and worked in teams.

You remember the glass case on the front porch to display some of the things needed in the hospitals . . . balls of muslin for hemorrhage pads, material for small hospital pillows, hospital slippers, and shoe polisher sets . . . The Girls' League completed one hundred and sixty-five shoe polisher sets and eleven pairs of slippers.

Do you remember the first war loan? . . . Alhambra City's part . . . the stamp booths on Main Street erected by the Federation . . . the contributions by the League and Federation to various war charitable organizations.

Even the high tension of the war effort did not halt the Boys' Federation's annual Father and Son Football Banquet at which everyone had a very enjoyable time . . . Then there was the piano given to the soldiers' barracks in Alhambra by the League and the Federation . . . and the program! Even the horrible "Battle of the Sexes" merely added to the enthusiasm of the war effort.

Remember those projects sponsored by the War Activities Committee . . . the hundred free annuals sent to servicemen . . . and the Christmas giving. Remember how pleased the marine seemed to be when we presented him with more than a thousand gifts: sewing kits, knives, slippers, games, cards, candy, swimming trunks, and sox . . . (including the Petty puzzle and purple, polka dot (swim) pants) to take back to his buddies in the Norconian Naval Hospital at Corona . . . The gratitude expressed in his short speech in the assembly was certainly worth any small effort we may have made . . . And remember Red Cross week last spring . . . the service strips . . . the student show . . . the living posters of the World War and the two moving pictures . . . all designed to help persuade the students to give to the Red Cross . . . and they came through in the usual grand style.

Remember your English teachers’ encouragement each week to buy stamps and to report bonds purchased...Remember the jeep-buying contest...the contest between classes to buy the most stamps and make the best notebooks...the plays...skits...speeches to promote sales...“Alhambra’s Answer.”

Remember the big gathering on the front porch with the band, and every one singing. That was part of the Fourth War Loan in which the kids from the grammar schools showed us the way it should be done. Remember voting for your favorite girl to be Queen of the “Victory Salute”...ten cent stamp, one vote, and so forth. Wasn’t it funny when the B9’s were captains, and you were privates and had to salute them?

WAR EFFORT

The introduction of a military program was an inevitable step in any all-out war effort. The Cadet Corps became a reality with the start of the second semester. Under the direction of Mr. Sowers, more than one hundred boys can be seen, and heard, on the A.H.S. "parade ground" any Monday or Tuesday.

ALHAMBRA'S

Did you realize that Alhambra High School lost more service men at Pearl Harbor than any other school of its size in the country? The flag now bears forty-two gold stars, six from Pearl Harbor. Because there are so many boys in the service from A.H.S., no attempt has been made to represent each one on the service flag with an individual silver star. Instead, the flag, with its victory design, represents all who have entered the services of our country.

Besides the many hundreds of boys who were graduated before Pearl Harbor and are now in the service, almost every boy who has left since that day has heeded his country's call.

In the past two issues of THE ALHAMBRA several pages have been set aside for the pictures of service men; this practice has been discontinued this year because it would be impossible to print pictures of all of Alhambra's soldiers, sailors, marines, coast guardsmen, and others connected with the service.

Though they do not appear here on our pages, A.H.S. is proud of its service men and women, nor will they be forgotten.

Do you recall how small the winter graduation class was? . . . The size of this class was attributed to two things—the number of students who were graduated in three and a half years and the number of boys who had been called to the colors before graduation . . . Of all the boys who had left during the semester, only two were able to return to be graduated.

You W'44 seniors will never forget your sacks—remember the trouble you had getting them? . . . no yarn, then they found it . . . then the yarn was lost enroute to California . . . It was finally found, and those “beautiful” green sacks appeared.

. . . Remember the “Snow Ball”? . . . decorations from the “cold north”? . . . Lenny Cohn and his orchestra . . . this was your last big dance at A.H.S. . . . then your senior play was ready . . . It was a mystery story that kept everyone guessing until the very end . . . Then came graduation and you had finished your days at A.H.S.

These are only a few of the things that happened to you during your senior year, but we hope that they recall the fun you had here at school.

Dear Nancy
I am sure glad everything came out all right. Be good
this summer and don't get mad

Harry [Signature]

Dear Nancy, really p.c.
We've really p.c. the haven't we?
had fun for the morning girls & the in the morning you all the want.
you are really wish you all with want to wish the world with luck in, the world with I'll see you. Love,
Shirley Johnson

Who? . . . ME???

I'm sure glad

I got a chance to sign your annual. I'll never forget the afternoon I met you. The day we hitch hiked (well practically)

They're NYLONS!!!

a ride to the Monrovia Game.

I didn't even know the guy, I hope you did????!!!

And then the hayride, more fun!!! Hope to see more of you next fall and
this summer.

Here's wishing you loads of luck.

"Maggie"
Clarke

Just wait until your father hears...

CAMPUS

HIGHLIGHTS

Do you remember the first day you attended A.H.S.? It seems a long time ago—those days of hamburgers (real ones), chewing gum, candy bars, and a trip to the beach every week-end during the summer in a car full of gasoline.

Then you recall that day two years ago, you were a sophomore, when those pleasures began to fade away, and you began to spend that extra dime for a war stamp.

Remember the B12 party—how could you forget it? . . . the gags, dancing, and refreshments . . . the time you wanted to go to the mountains (winter) or to the beach (summer), and there wasn't enough gasoline (we'll forget those gas coupons that suddenly turned up).

After you got to your destination (mountains or beach) you remember how the O.P.A. man stopped you and asked you what you were doing there on an "A" card. Some of you were better "thinkers" than the others!

Of course you haven't forgotten the prom and the fun you had after graduation. On both occasions most of you didn't get to bed until—"rather late."

None of you will ever forget the many boys who weren't present at graduation because they were already serving in the armed forces.

Many of you seniors will carry pleasant memories of your years at A.H.S. with you into your war activities and with you overseas as you give your share toward victory.

Perhaps it isn't generally known yet, but the W'45 class did something more than to entertain themselves at social activities this past semester. A survey of student body, club, and class offices was made by the members of the class council, and the results of this are to be used in what will be known as the point system. This system will do away with the holding of all school offices by a few people.

Did you see small groups of students talking in low whispers, about something they seemed to want to keep very secret, late in February? . . . They were senior B's talking about the "blood red" sweaters they had chosen for their sacks. The poor B12's (lucky) must wait until September to wear those——sweaters.

The usual B12 party was held on Friday evening, April 21. Dancing, entertainment, and food completed an unusually good time.

CLASS OFFICERS

Manpower shortage

Senior class activities do not complete the picture—the other classes were busy too.

Remember how the older girls played hostess to the freshmen? They said they were doing them a big favor—but how they loved getting out of class to show off in front of new students.

After the “scrubs” were accepted by the older members of the student body as part of school life, seniors, juniors, and sophomores would stand behind the auditorium and watch the freshmen practicing to be yell and song leaders.

If the sophomores missed having yell and song leaders they made up for it by congratulating themselves on being by far the smartest and best students who had ever attended Alhambra High.

Didn't it seem strange when the juniors had to order their class jewelry in the B11 because of difficulties in filling orders and other wartime complications...when the new junior council system was started which helped in the formulation of numerous plans—one of which was the junior prom, held in June.

Remember the class meetings, dances, and talent shows given by the different classes at one time or another. The freshmen seemed to have quite a monopoly on talent shows...we all remember the daily bulletin notices—“appear at such-and-such a place at such-and-such a time, to sign up or try out.”

The A10's will remember the program given at one of their class meetings in addition to the dance which they sponsored later in the semester. None of us will forget the excellent job done by the junior A's in sponsoring the basketball games and dances afterwards—remember the clever advertisements which would surprise you at the end of the halls.

Dear Nancy:

I want to express in my humble words to you words of greetings and good will in the best way I know. Lots of love to a very smart and cute girl I have known for a couple of years and in our friendship I believe I have gained an immense amount of pleasure. I want also to wish you and Susan all the luck in the world and may you always be together. Also have a good summer and always all don't work too hard. Always remember me, your friend and fellow student from

John and Philip

Dear Nancy:

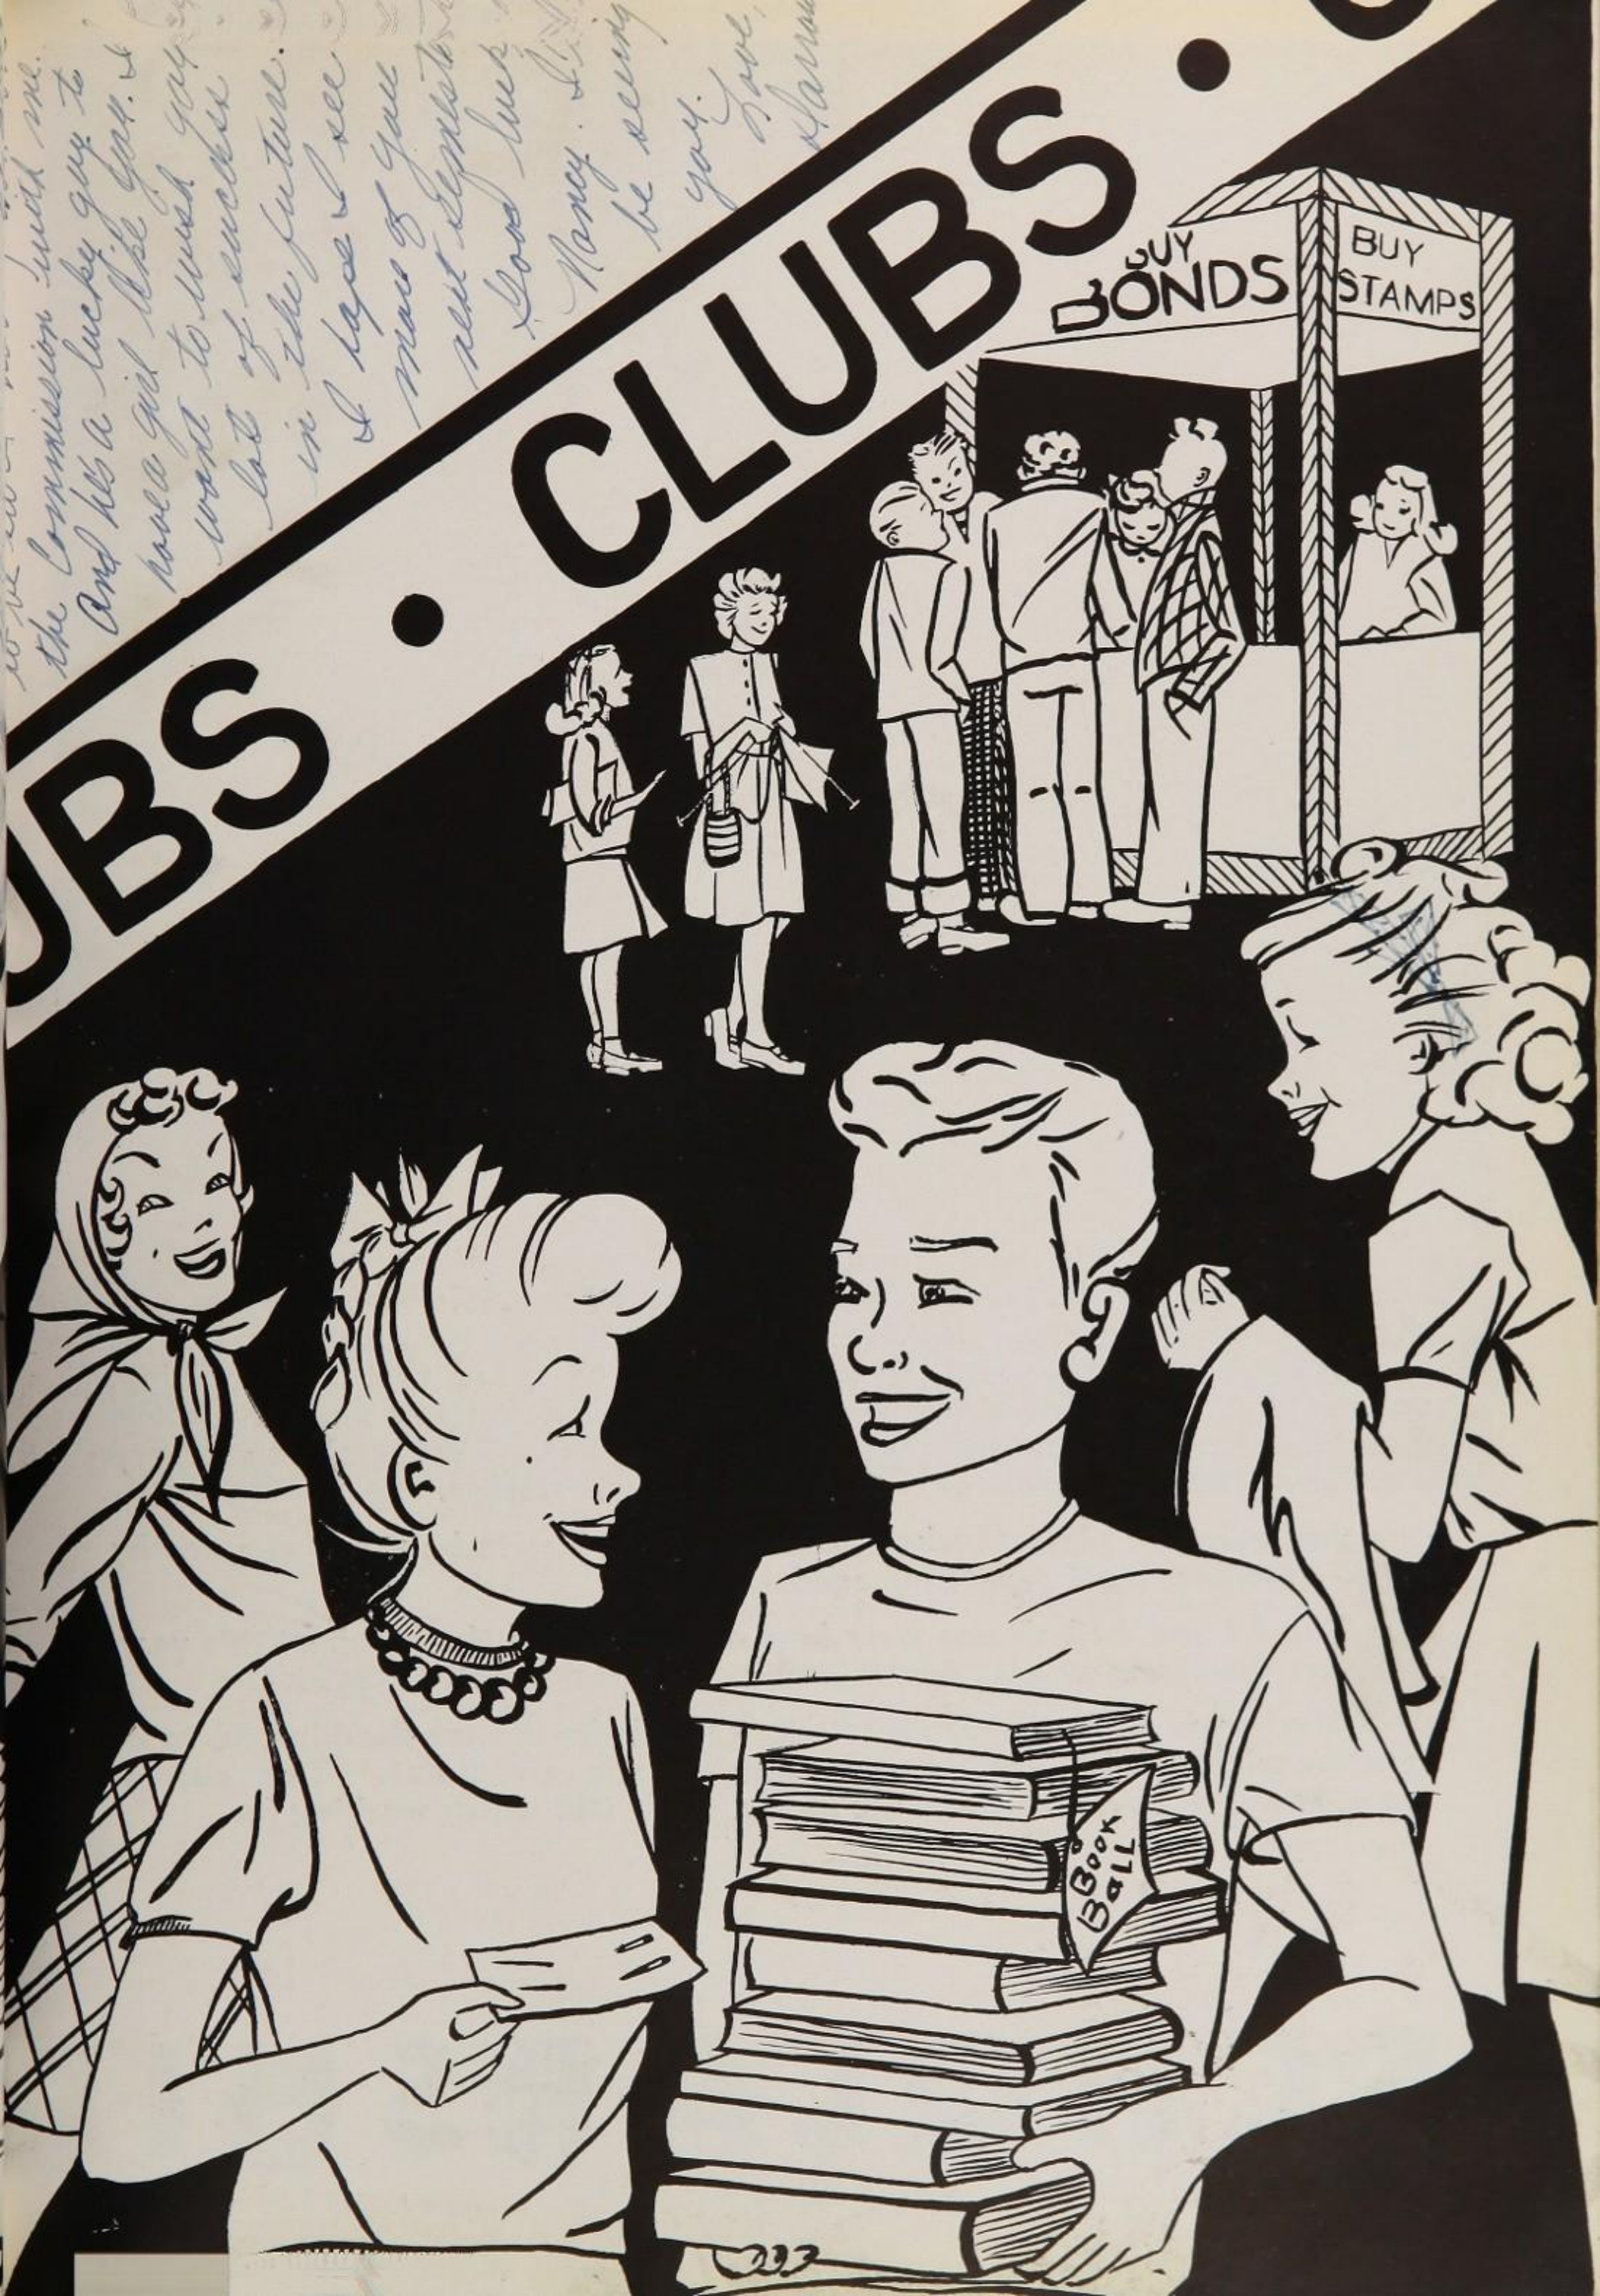

I really don't know how to express my feelings toward you. I don't think I have ever known a girl half as nice as you. You really are a lucky girl. You are a lucky girl. You have a guy like I want. He's really cute. And I'm sure you'll like him. I'll be there.

Dear Nancy:
You are lucky to be going to the summer school. I think you are the sweetest girl I know.
Love

Straw, sore backs, and green hands—the result of an afternoon spent picking tomatoes. Remember working hard for one whole semester to get on the Scholarship Society... looking forward to leaving your envious friends slaving in class on that particular holiday—only to spend that time picking, and ducking, tomatoes. In this way the Society had fun and also helped the war effort, by helping a farmer get his crop to market. The members averaged a dollar apiece which most of them invested in war stamps.

According to plans the half-holiday in May was to be spent at a nearby park—anything to get away from school.

The A9 and A12 classes were best represented in the “brains” this year. Why are the youngest and oldest (and fairest) the smartest?

Maybe you noticed that those who earned the life scholarship had to be satisfied with an I.O.U. instead of the pins usually given out. This curtailment, however, does not lessen the honor. It is still worth working for.

Remember when the A clubs spent most of their time trying to think up services for the school. War years afford countless opportunities . . . Remember seeing the members hurrying down to help on the rationing board . . . staying after school to help their overworked teachers . . . girls knitting in their classes for the Red Cross—many of them giving up one evening each week to fold bandages at Alamansor and Main . . . decorating the El Moro ballroom for dances, some of which they sponsored . . . selling tickets to everything . . . polishing trophies . . . dusting banners . . . helping in war bond campaigns and numerous other services, not the least of which was the flag raising ceremony which has been presided over by various A clubs from time to time. Each year the competition has grown keener for the club trophy which is awarded for outstanding services to the school, to the club, and to the community. This inspired more prominent work on the part of all. Remember when a new girls' club was organized only three semesters ago. The members have worked hard and succeeded in pushing it to the top of the girls' service clubs. The club awards this year went to the Sr. Hi-Y and the Pequenitas . . .

B clubs have always been popular at A.H.S. Their members too have turned their attention to the war effort. Remember the programs which were presented to guide the students toward many worth while activities. Do you remember when some soldiers explained how artists were needed to make training manuals? . . . when a representative from a war plant explained which people they needed and why . . . Remember when your club, too, sent presents to servicemen at the Norconian Hospital . . . when you begged teachers and friends to join the P.T.A. through you so that your club would get the credit . . . when your entire club joined the Red Cross. The seniors will recall the play which the Light and Shadow presented at their class party . . . French prisoners of war in Germany no doubt appreciated the boxes which the French club sent through the Red Cross . . . all of us found the exhibits in the hall cases interesting . . . the Art Club was also responsible for the attractive displays in the offices. These clubs are extremely vital and worthwhile. In the award assembly the B club trophy was again awarded to the Art club . . .

When you first thought of joining a C club, remember how hard it was. There were so many—one for each hobby. A new C club, the Two-Twenty, promoted the plans for the "Club Alhamar". Their record stack was made available for the school dances. Remember the hard times different clubs had in getting transportation to their parties . . . Remember when the front hall cases were filled with different types of trees which many of you tried to name and found completely baffling. The Scientia, which sponsored that contest, has worked hard in improving the Court of the Moors and the patio. These efforts to promote interest in the science courses won for them the C club trophy.

Miss Lillian A. Anderson

Mr. Donald P. McAlpine

Miss Georgia Shropshire

We wish to extend our best wishes and sincere thanks to these friends and teachers as they leave Alhambra High School.

Miss Lillian A. Anderson of the foreign language department, during her long association with the administration, faculty, and student body, has always demonstrated her willingness to help. Miss Anderson, through her classes in Spanish, has given many students a better understanding of our neighbors to the South.

Mr. Donald P. McAlpine of the English department is one of the teachers leaving Alhambra High School this year. He remembers when THE MOOR, then called THE SPOTLIGHT, was first started . . . when the difficult job of putting out the annual was under his supervision . . . when he was head of the English department.

Miss Georgia Shropshire, for many years head of the Music department, resigned this year. She is well known in our school, city, and state for her accomplishments in the music field. Through her efforts Alhambra High School students enjoyed many excellent musical programs. Her inspiring leadership helped to establish many Alhambra High School traditions.

The departments have been engaged, directly and indirectly, in activities contributing to the war effort. The English department was responsible for the sale of war stamps and bonds in English classes every Tuesday. Remember the assembly when Mr. Noyes gave readings from his own poetry...when you thumbed through the pages of THE SILVER PEN to see if any of your masterpieces were printed. The Language department worked mostly through the Latin, French, and Spanish clubs. You have probably noticed how the enrollment in the department has increased. Remember when you first enrolled in one of the language classes? You thought you'd be able to rattle it off in no time—optimistic, weren't you?

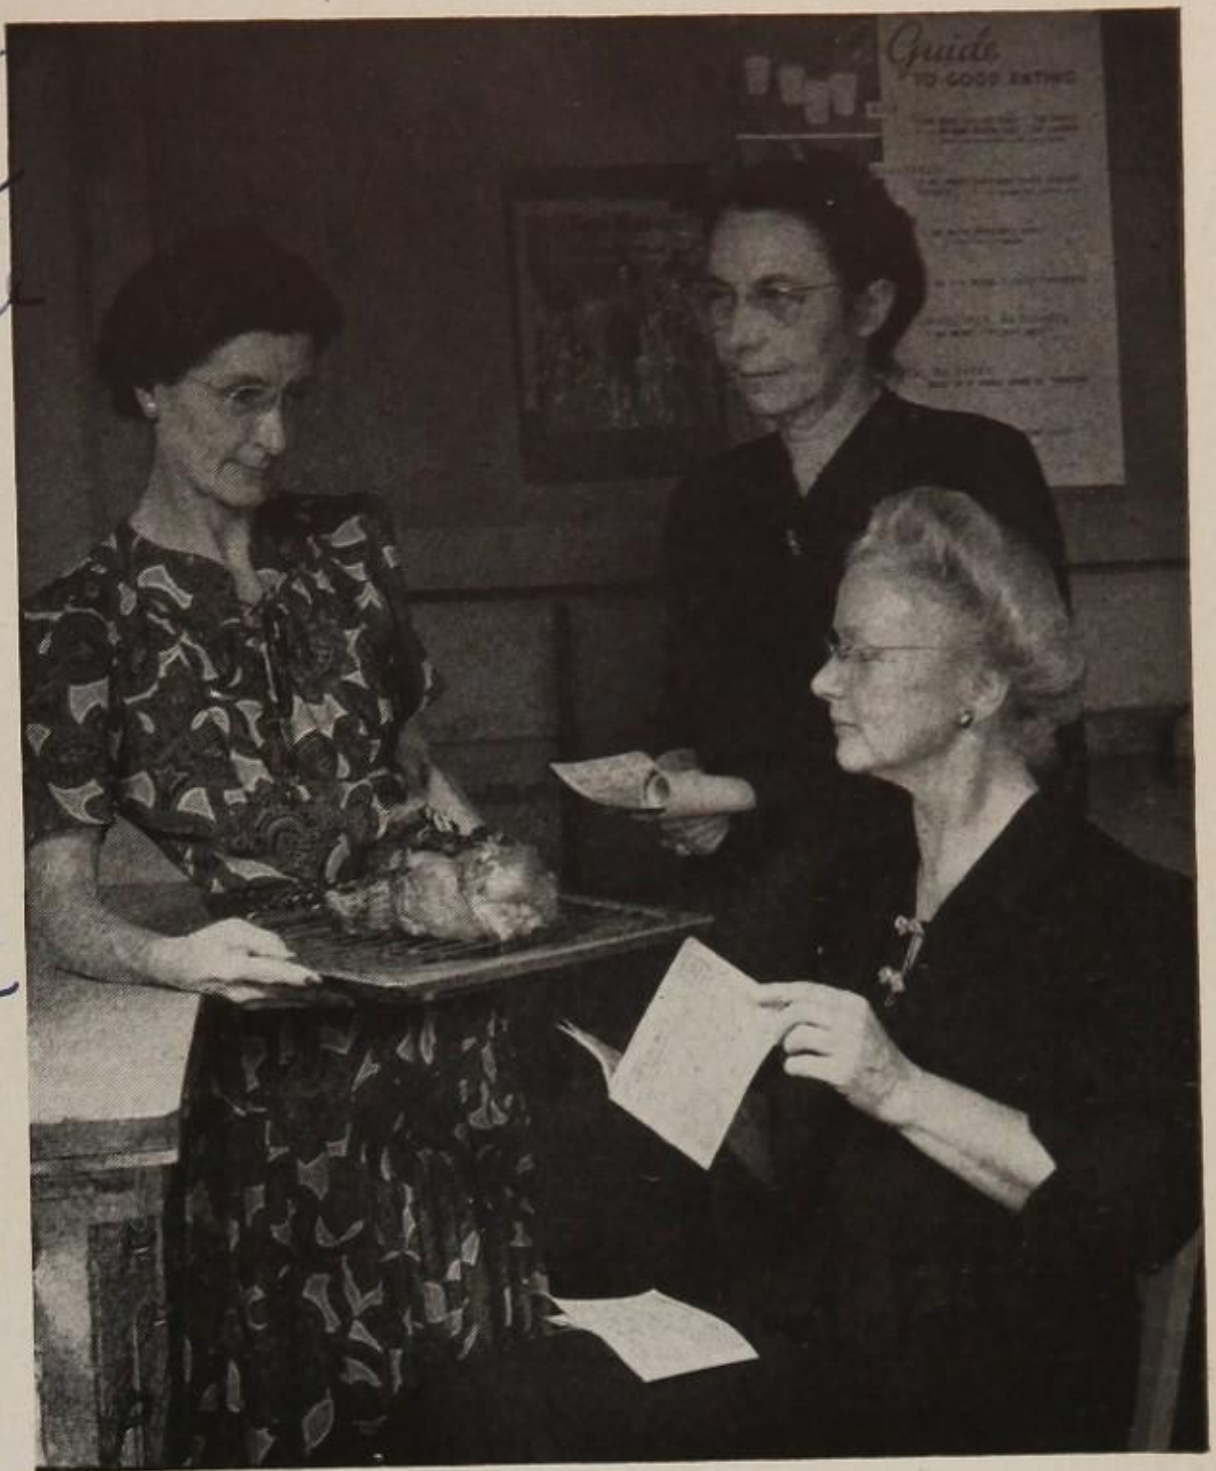

...Remember when you wrapped gifts for the Norconian Hospital...How much easier it was to buy Christmas cards, paper, and ribbon at school instead of traveling uptown. The Speech department students took the responsibility of selling these articles? Remember also the two excellent senior plays and the honors our debaters won.

The Social Science department acted as a war information clearing house—even O.W.I. and O.P.A. paraphernalia went through that office. Mr. Shipman wrote the syllabus for the pre-induction course. Remember the U.S. History Awards contest in which Alhambra High proved to have the best record of any Southern California public high school . . . the time you had making out an income tax report in your civics class. This department also had complete supervision of the student body elections ("etc., etc., etc., is this enough?" E. E. Shipman) . . . The Commercial department noticed quite a shortage of boys in the classes. The girls prepared for jobs in banks, offices, and stores to replace the boys who had gone into the service . . . The demand for specialized training in math has emphasized the importance of the Science department. Remember how many boys struggled through geometry thinking of the day their torture would end; now you see them in trig classes hoping to improve themselves for military opportunities to come . . . Remember how the Industrial Arts department reminded you more of a branch of the Ordnance department of the U.S. Army. These departments did their utmost to fill military and defense plant needs. Remember the billy clubs for the police and highway patrol . . . model airplanes for the War department . . . stretchers for the Red Cross—in addition to many specialized tools. Remember the First Aid and Home Nursing classes in gym . . . those strange looking bandages which sometimes would never come untied even though you had positively tied a square knot . . . The day you thought the Army had taken over the school only to find it was the Cadet Corps, a regular class in boys' gym, in their new uniforms.

The wind goes down and around . . .

As for the Music department—you remember the band programs on the front porch opening war bond drives and annual sales and at the football and basketball games . . . and the programs put on by both the girls' and boys' glee clubs at school—the Christmas program, and at community affairs—Y.M.C.A. annual banquet . . . The Home Economics department contributed a lot to the Red Cross—slippers, washcloths, hot water bottle covers, afghans, and also scrapbooks and puzzles. As usual the Art department was called on for any and all things in the way of advertising. Without them the school could hardly function. They were asked to make pictures and posters for the bond drives, and you can certainly remember when they struggled over the large charts for the Ordnance department at Santa Anita. Remember, also, when Red went stark, raving mad trying to finish this assignment on time?

You have gone up to the Library at one time or another . . . many of you in search of an interesting war book . . . Remember that day in March that the Library was closed to you because of the Navy V-12 test?

Social science students recall the War Information Service pamphlets in their classrooms, obtained through the Library at Miss Gilstrap's request.

These were but a few instances in which the librarian and her assistants were particularly helpful.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT Dr. Arthur Sloan

Your daily newspaper made you feel unwell when it reported, repeatedly, health deficiencies in the eighteen to thirty-eight age group of potential inductees. We should feel fortunate in having a department, under the direction of Miss Ruel, which is so interested in maintaining a high standard of health among the students.

Miss Turnbull is now making a survey of health conditions and is working to introduce better health habits to the students through their courses of study.

Remember the boys who always ran around with those big black boxes, saying, "Hold it, smile... that's all"? Those were just part of the photography staff. Directed by Mr. Betts, the members of this staff have taken pictures of anything and everything around the school. When film grew scarce, the pictures were few, but good.

Words! words! words!... and more words. More there... build 'em up, tear 'em down—that's the literary staff. With the genial help of Mr. Edmondson, Sue Hamilton sped this book on its way. Teachers, particularly class and club advisers, will remember the harried look of those sent to interview them, and certainly that red A must have attracted your attention at the time the annuals were on sale. (We hope you weren't one of those foolish people who believed the sales would be extended.)

Because a salesmanship class was not in session during the semester, the business staff of the yearbook dwindled to a manager and an assistant who, under the guidance of Miss Heron, planned the advertising and conducted the sales. This trio was largely responsible for a record sale.

The art staff, under the watchful eye of Mrs. Boone, was responsible for the illustrations and those dizzy cartoons which are the very vital part of any yearbook. It was theirs to work and slave... to finish a picture only to drop a blob of paint right in the middle, and then to do it over again. Yes, there is hardly a dull moment in the production of an annual.

You undoubtedly realized when you received your first edition of THE MOOR this year that changes were being made in style and makeup . . . remember the new form in which club stories were presented and the increased variety on the feature page? For the first time THE MOOR has had the same editor, Alan Edwards, for two semesters.

Then the paper was entered in the twenty-second annual Newspaper Day at the University of Southern California. Here it was presented for consideration in two classes of competition: that which evaluated the improvement within a single year, and the class which considered the all-around newspaper for the past four years.

Remember the strange odors in the west wing during the month of February? . . . THE MOOR staff was at work—repainting their office. Yes, you too probably made your snide remarks about the color scheme—blue and peach, and for a newspaper office! tch! tch!

You probably remember the "Speech Clinic" held at A.H.S. which featured, along with other debates, a battle between U.S.C. and Pepperdine College. A short time later, you recall, there was the debate tournament held at Mark Keppel High School, where we took second place, the sweepstakes going to Beverly Hills. . . later, the tournament at Hollywood High School. Remember the District N.F.L. tournament at A.H.S., where even representatives from San Francisco were present. This was one of the important speech events of the year. You may remember our challenge to Los Angeles High School. . . and the debate at A.H.S. against those same Romans where the question was "Resolved: That the United States Should Lead in the Reconstituting of the League of Nations," and where we split the decisions in a double assembly. And you could hardly forget the "battle royal" over the question of debate letters for the varsity debate team.

Why doesn't SHE go home?

Has anybody here seen Charles Lock?

Do you remember the strenuous week of tryouts for the W'44 senior play . . . seniors quitting their jobs so that they could have a part in the play? Then the exciting day when the play and players were revealed . . . "Incognito", a modern mystery play with Bud Butler in the lead, and Barbara Swanson playing opposite him. After many weeks of hard work, under the direction of Mrs. Wynne, assisted by Barbara Cope and Marjorie Crump, the play was ready . . . January 14 and 15 finally came. Remember how excited you were when the curtain went up on the scene on board a modern steamer, a most realistic set created by Mrs. Boone and the stage crew . . . how the play started with a bang as Jagendorff (Art LeRoy) was murdered? Then the captain of the ship (Bill Aspinwall) was questioning the passengers (all women) . . . how each one made you suspect her for one reason or another.

Remember arguing with your friends about who was guilty? . . . How surprised you were when the whole crew, the captain and first mate excepted, turned out to be Germans; but you were still wrong about the outcome.

Captain Mitchell, alias Charles Lock, actually a British agent, was responsible for Jagendorff's murder. You were utterly confused when the finger of guilt was pointed at each member of the cast. But that guy Lock really had a mission in life. He actually forsook the hamburgers, Coney Island, and the —lady in order to save the world.

"A mocking bird sings in the magnolia trees,
And the jasmine wafts on the evening breeze."

Didn't the play throw you into a "tizzy" when Johnny (Bill Rowe) and Spud (Jack Hutchings) both came down with the measles after they had asked Lucybelle (Gloria Wallen), that Southern bunch of loveliness, to go to the Christmas prom?

Remember how Susan (Pinky Taylor) exchanged a typewriter for a bicycle, the bicycle for a washing machine, and then traded the washing machine for the three-color newspaper spread? . . . Then to top it all off, she mixed the articles up . . . having the journalism teacher (Patti Lacy) and the principal (Marc May) married . . . and the policeman's daughter going out to the jive-joint night spots with the "city bum"?

Didn't you go into a "swivet" when the women got together and decided that men had to be handled carefully? . . . then, the men convened and made the decision that women had been trouble "Even Since Eve," but that they could be handled with an iron hand in a velvet glove.

The well-directed cast was under the direction of Miss Hazel Reynolds, assisted by Martha Comfort, student director.

Who could forget that grand set (designed and built by Mrs. Boone and her stage crew) which was adaptable to either Johnny's very masculine taste or to the Southern frills and ruffles which were so dear to Lucybelle's heart?

We were all worried about the difficulties which faced us at the start of the football season. First, there was the problem of transportation. Although travel was limited, you managed somehow to get to the games. The players used to climb into a luxurious bus; they had no worries about transportation. Then gas rationing came, and now they pile into overcrowded cars. The dimout stopped all night contests, and you will remember how strange it seemed at first to sit under the hot sun to watch the games. Another change was our new schedule which placed us in a new league, Group 5, made up of nearby schools.

You were never so cold, the lights were never so bright, the excitement was never higher, the wild cheers and yells were never louder as you added your voice to those of thousands of spectators at the Whittier game—your first night game in ages, and one you will never forget. That game, and others like it, made us proud of our varsity, and that same game virtually made them the champions of Group 5.

Team overconfidence stared Coach Hobbs in the face, but, as usual, the annual Thanksgiving game saw Alhambra take Mark Keppel in stride.

V A R S I T Y

Remember how our B team started out to be the answer to Coach Kemp's prayers. The boys literally showed promise. Then came a few incomplete passes, with the faculty doing the pitching, and Mr. Kemp grew grayer over night. High hopes dropped to an all time low...but they were recovered when the Cees won the championship of their league. Those little fellows certainly deserve a hand for their performance.

The tremendous crowds attested to the fact that football is still A.H.S.'s favorite sport.

With the coming of basketball season you realized that only one letterman had returned to play on the varsity team; and your spirits suddenly went into a tailspin, for you could readily see that Mr. Kemp had little hope for a championship team. But the players had a final word in the matter, and even though they dropped several close ones, when an extra "bucket" might have meant the difference between victory and defeat, they did just about all that anyone could ask of them. . . Then, you recall with despair your attitude toward the last game with Keppel, a superior squad on paper. The prospect of a win was not to be considered. . . then the night of the game. . . and the glorious feeling that goes with victory, particularly over Keppel. . . enough to make any season a complete success.

Recall the enthusiasm about the B team—considered by many to be one of the great B teams in Alhambra's history. . . the very successful season . . . the tie with Monrovia. . . and the rule which prevented the playoff because each team had played its allotted games. . .

The powerful C team—little but mighty men—deserved much credit for that notable season. . . the "hair raiser" in the playoff against Whittier which brought the championship to Alhambra. . .

Accustomed to the best in tennis, Alhambra rooters could have found little reason for disappointment this year. If you can recall Spring Vacation—who can't—you will recall that the Moor netters were undefeated up to that time in league play.

Nor were things completely quiet along the home front. Playoffs for the various trophies really provided excitement. . . Remember how Jack Abbott won the Mills cup for the best freshman player; how Don Kendall received the Behlow cup after many rounds of tough competition. . . and remember the Houser trophy for the best doubles team and the keen competition for that one, too.

And don't forget the Inter-Community Tennis Tournament at the Southern California Country Club where Alhambra split honors with South Pasadena by taking both boys' and girls' doubles, while the Tigers copped the other points.

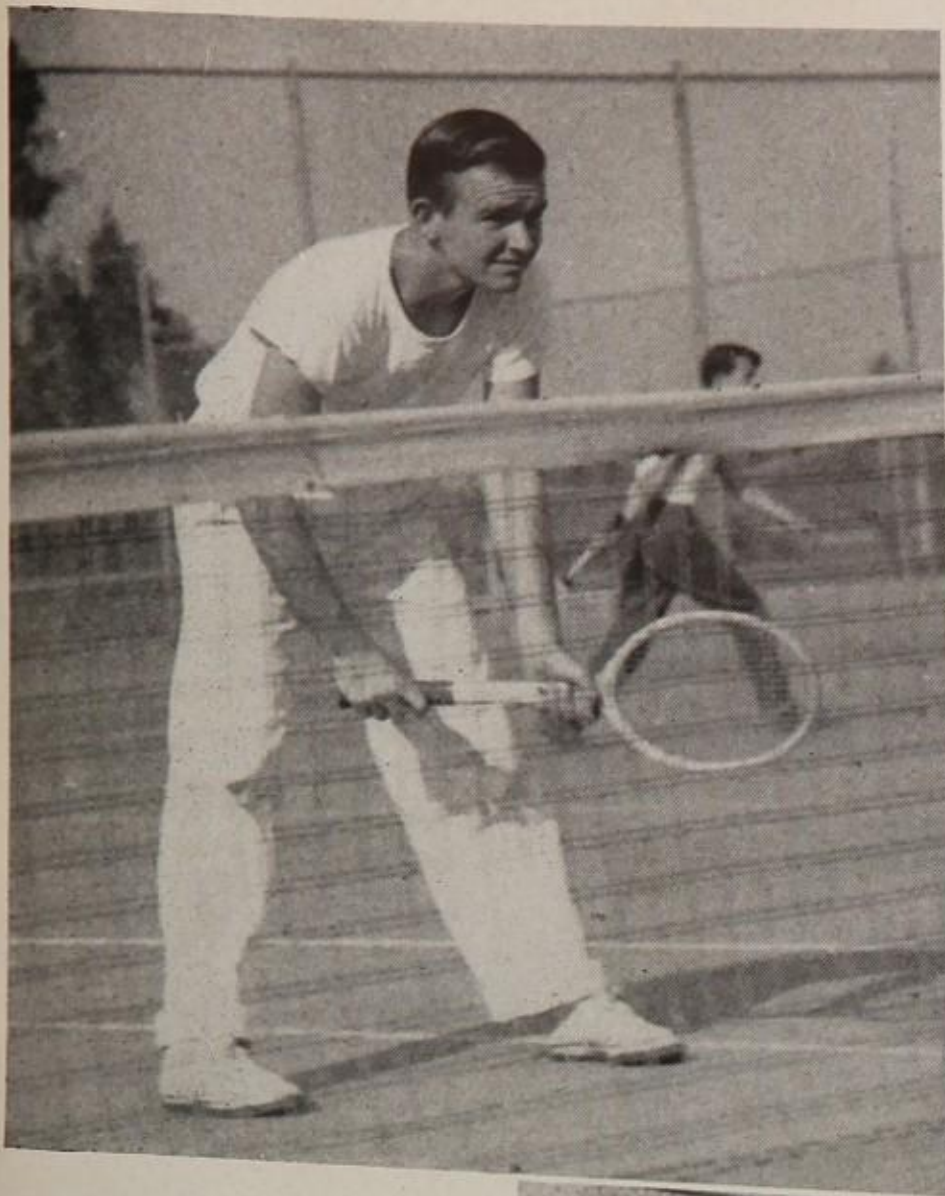

Yes, this has been and promises to be a most successful year.

Then came spring, as usual, but a day early this year (don't ask me why), and all the boys of the scanty-panty brigade came out for track. Remember that you were inclined to think of the outstanding performers of last year who might return. You thought of the strength in the sprints, in the high jump, and in the broad jump, but you failed to realize the necessity for a well-rounded team if we were to be successful in dual meets.

You can easily recall that these top-flight performers continued to come through, but such individual performances might easily be overshadowed by the many points from second and third place winners. The situation was further aggravated by the old rule which prohibited participation in such competition as commercial basketball leagues. Several of the unwary were dropped from track because of this.

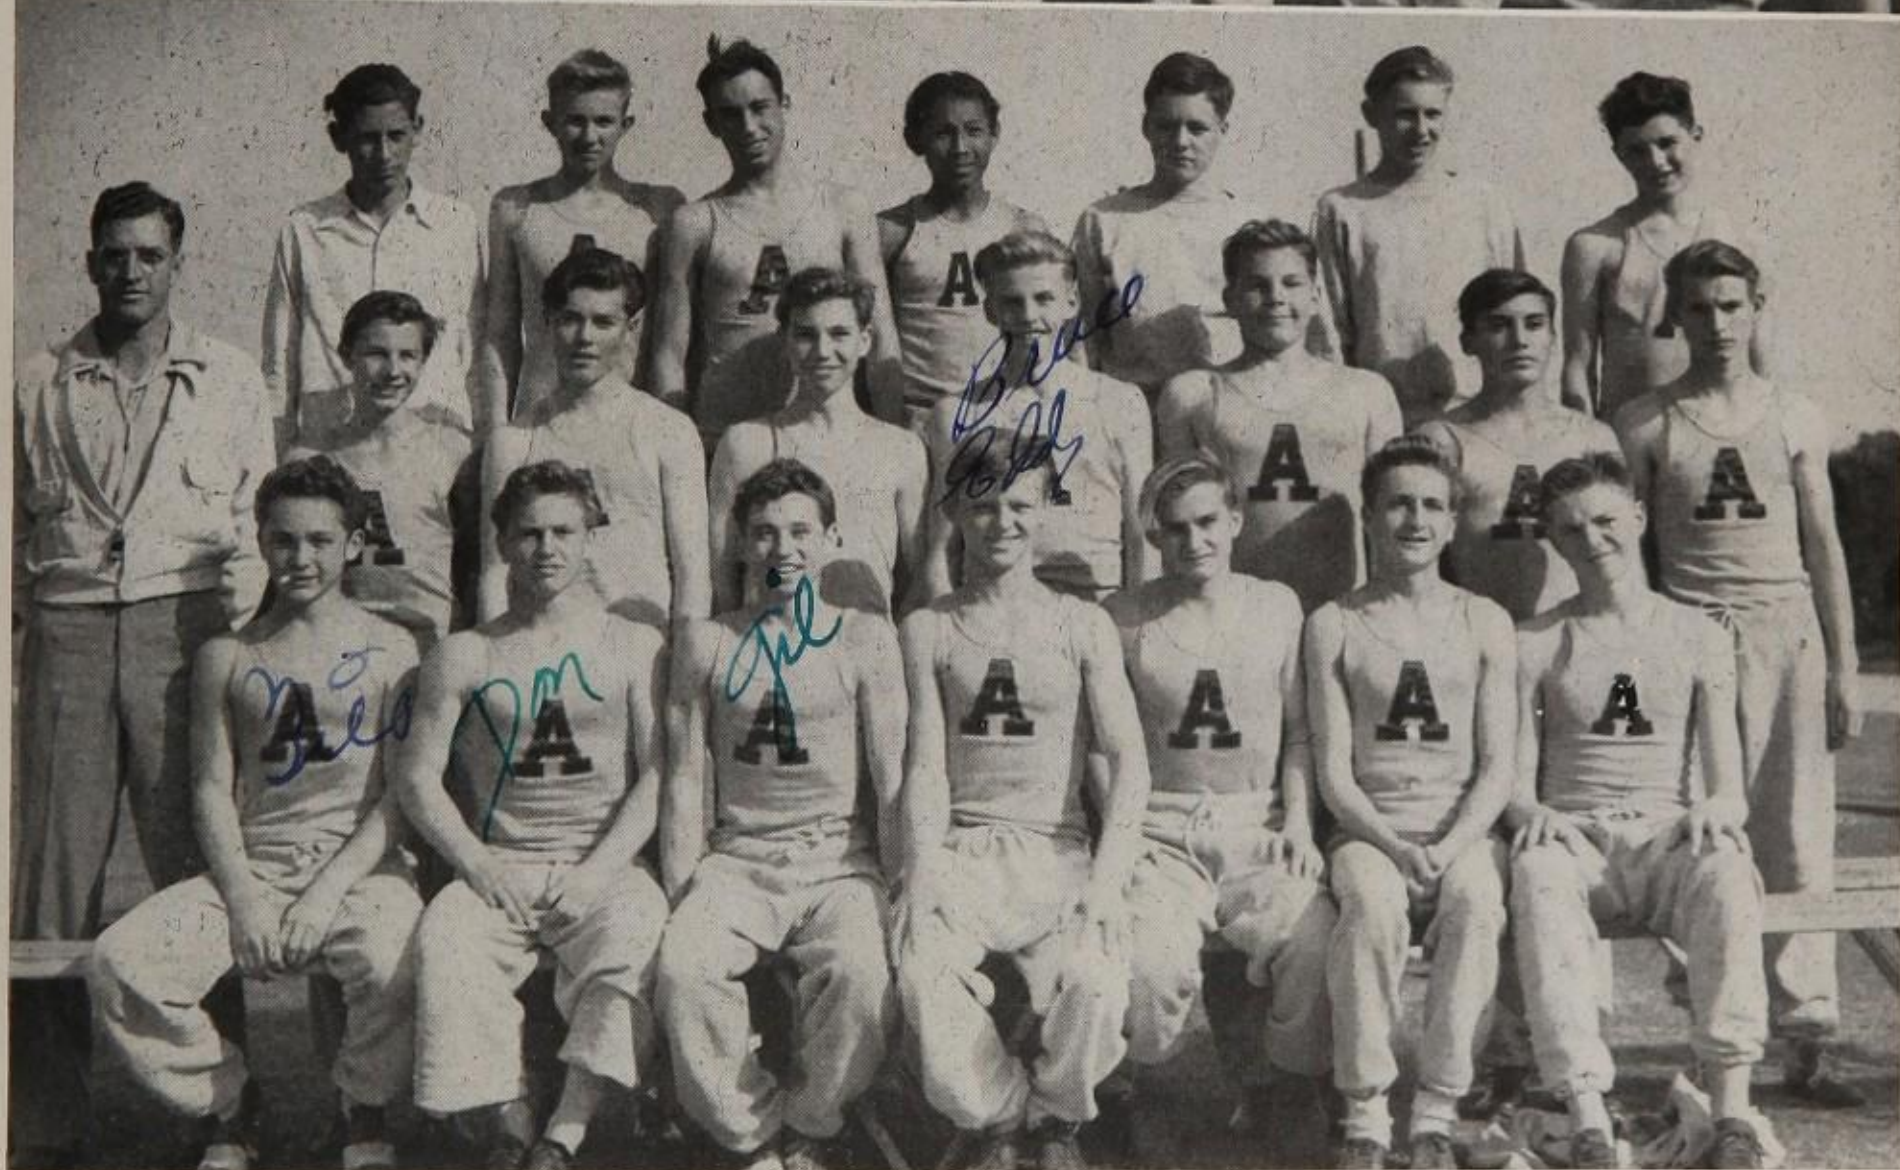

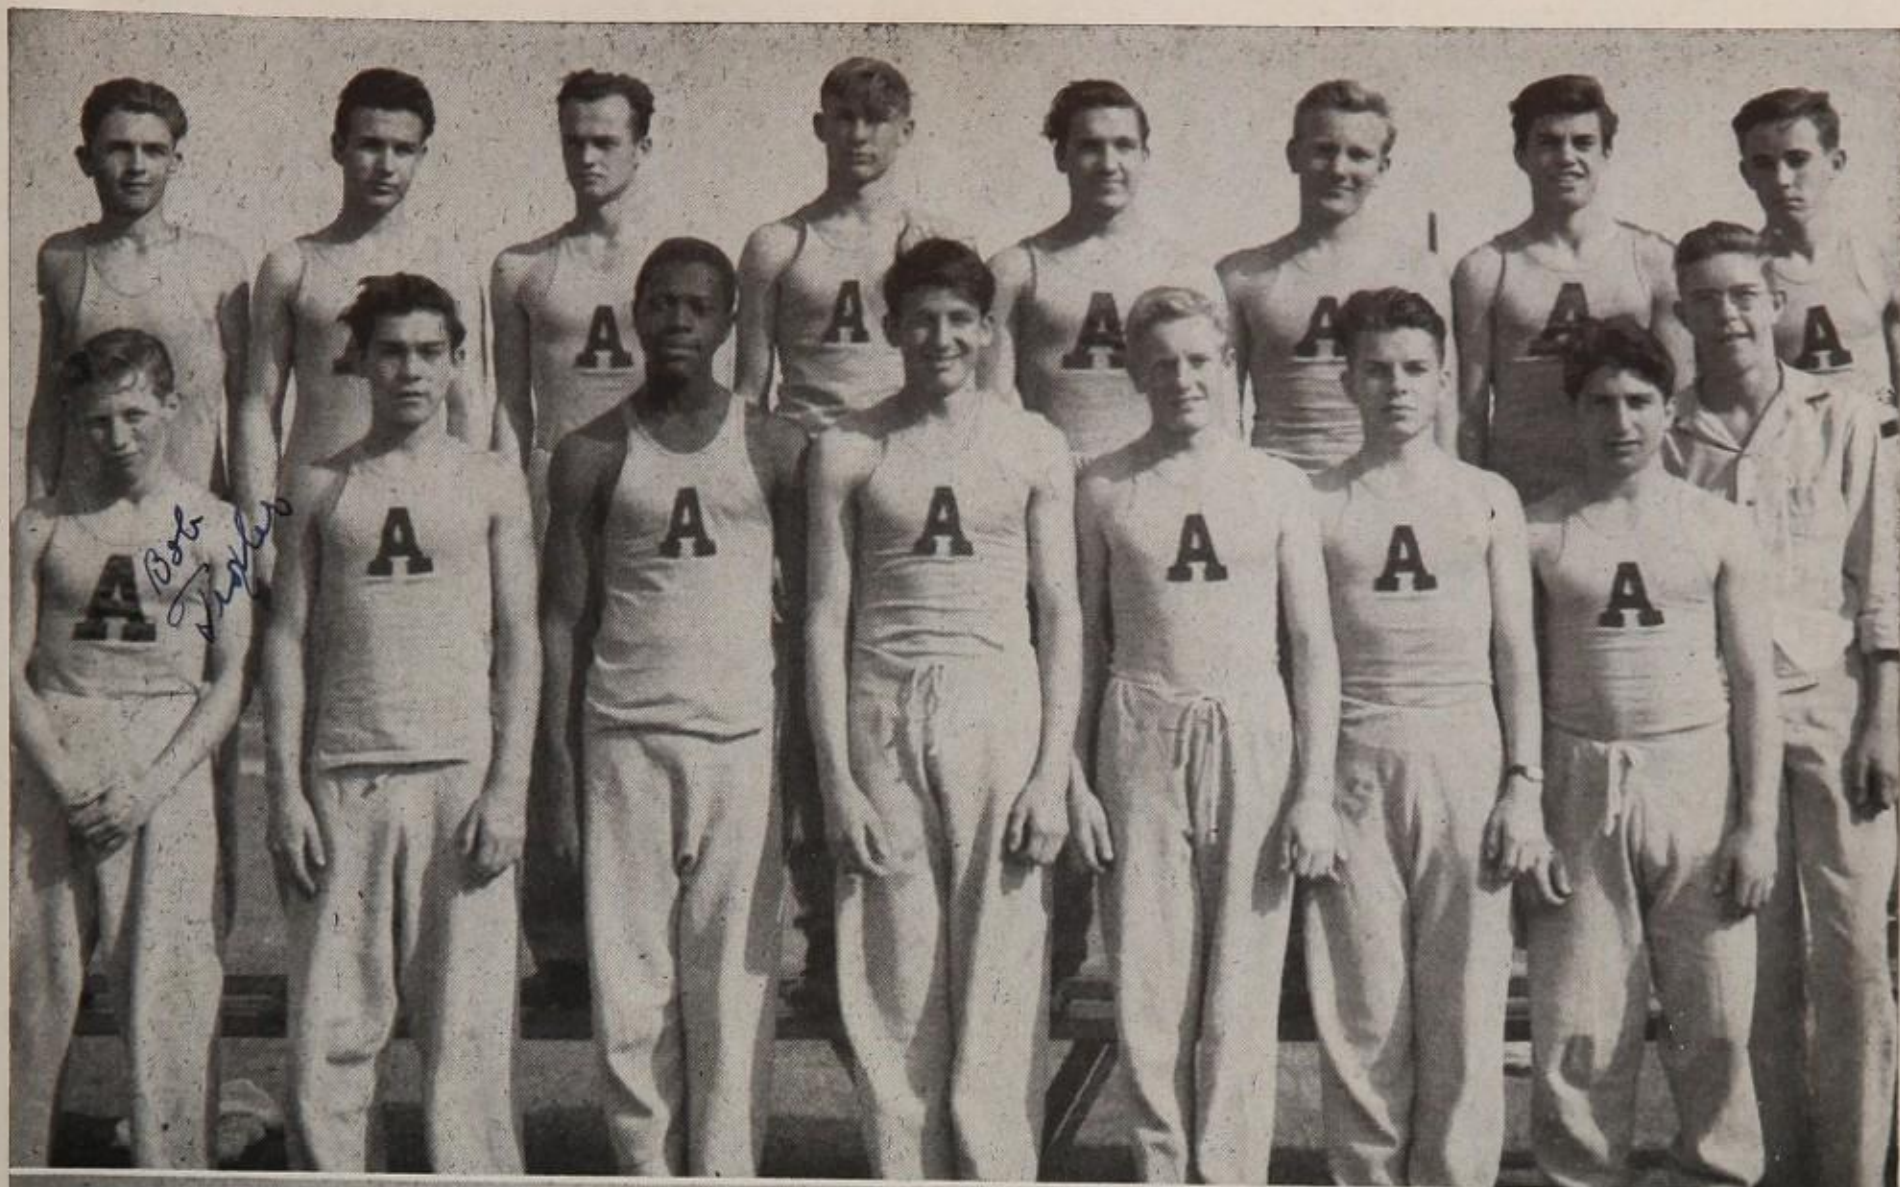

Again the little men were mighty, and the Cees presented a potent group. As we go to press the Cees have accounted for four wins in the Cee competition in the last four meets, and an excellent season record is in prospect. The Bees promised to win a fair share of points, but there was a pronounced lack of team strength.

*Lot of love to a very pretty girl

Last in the sports calendar, but never least important in interest, was baseball, and certainly baseball earned this interest. Remember the workouts which started before general team practice . . . the evidences of good hurling . . . the prospect of many pitchers' duels . . .

Then came the opening games, and the Moors were successful from the start. Good and timely hitting were responsible for a part of this success. You remember, too, that these same heavy bats were consistent.

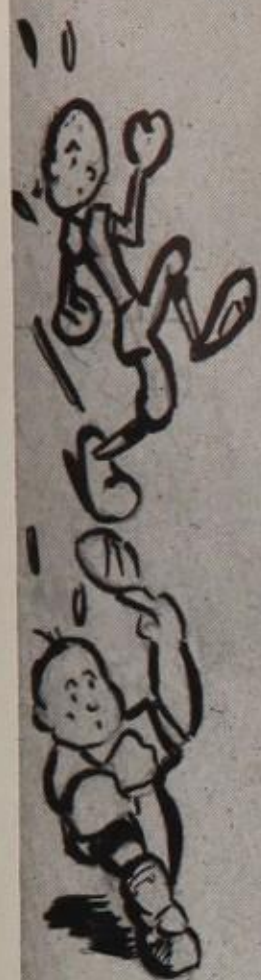

But the picture was too bright . . . the ugly business of the commercial leagues affected baseball too, and at least one game had to be forfeited. In the double round of play only two games have been dropped as the yearbook goes to the printers.

Varsity baseball's "farm," the Jay Vee club, was slated to get into action upon the reopening of school in April. It was reported that they were to play a single round of competition.

*Lot of luck
to a swell gal
Seymour*

V A R S I T Y

We regret, as we go to press, that pictures of the Jay Vees were not available. Certainly there must be one in the group who resembles your "hero." If any one of these pictures does not exactly suit, draw one, and let him sign that.

The Newspaper

There is no force which can remotely approach the newspaper's influence in its own city. As the mirror reflecting every facet of the daily life—the births and the deaths, the marriages and the divorces, the promotions and the bankruptcies—the newspaper is the plastic which holds a community together.

Campaigning for charity funds, for better government, for war bonds, Red Cross, and for various other programs—these are the accepted activities of the newspaper.
